(A) INTRODUCTION

THE name of Gordon is as ancient as any of the present European monarchies. Caesar mentions in his commentaries a people among the Nervii, called Gorduni, to whom he gives great praise for their brave defense of Ghent (their city, which he attacked in his conquest of Gaul, B. C. 53). It is said that the name originally came from "Gordonia," a city in Macedonia.

The Gordons have been an active, romantic, adventurous and "restless" race. There were "heroes of the name of Gordon, who for valor and loyalty are hardly to be paralleled by any family in Britain, and can't be exceeded by any other in Europe." From "A History of the Gordons."

Malcolm Bullock, who published numerous volumes on the Gordon family of Great Britain, and who is, perhaps, the best authority on the history of the family, published a book entitled "The Gay Gordons" (Reference 50). The following narratives in which Gordons are involved are found, among others, in this volume: "The 'Guidin' of the Gordons," "The Romance of the White Rose," "The Famous Assassination of Wallenstein," "The Last King of Poland," "The Governor of Kornstadt," "The Woon' o't," "The Elopement of Lady Sarah Bunbury," "A Boy Who Was Beheaded at Brest," "The Dangers of a Scarlet Coat," "The Christening of the Orange River," "A Fatal Duel in Hyde Park," "The Abduction of the 'Female Infidel'," "About Gordon Tartan," "The Story of a Kiss," "The Gayness of a Diplomat," "An Old Man of the Sea," "Some 'Gey' Gordons," "A Liberator of Greece," "The Story of a Fatal Flute," "The Last of His Line," "A Noble Earl as an A. D.," etc.

Many poems have been written by and about the Gordons, some of them exceeding fifty stanzas. Among them are "Prince Edward and Adam Gordon," "Gordie," "Gight's Lady," "Glenlogie," "Jean O'Bethelnie's Love for Sir G. Gordon," "Edom O'Gordon," "The Battle of Glenlivet," "The Gordons and the Grants," "The Battle Bridge of Dee," "Nathaniel Gordon," "Jock and Tam Gordon," "Ballade of the Gay Gordons," "The Duke of Gordon's Daughter," "Lochinvar," etc. William Gordon was the hero of the immortal poem, "Young Lochinvar."

The Gordon family has been prominent in America also, its members having played important roles in war and in peace. Family pride is a commendable trait and should be cultivated. All Gordons have just cause to be proud of their family history and traditions.

The data in this volume is gathered from reliable sources. Those desiring further information are advised to consult volumes mentioned in list of references given in the back of this volume. The writer and his associates will be glad to give their co-operation to any members of the family who may be interested in having a complete genealogy of the family published.

Unless otherwise plainly shown, the persons in this volume whose names are accompanied by three figures are sons or daughters of the immediately preceding persons bearing immediately preceding consecutive numbers. All persons in each group, bearing the same letter as a part of their respective numbers, are directly related. The generations of the descendants of those bearing numbers of three figures are represented as follows:

Generations: 1st 2nd 3rd 4th 5th 6th 7th 8th 9th 10th
Symbols: (1), etc. (A), etc. (a), etc. 1, etc. A, etc. a, etc. (I), etc. (i), etc. I, etc. i, etc.

ABBREVIATIONS: Ad., address; b., born; ch., children; coll., college; d., died; d. y., died young; d. w. i., died without issue; dau., daughter; grad., graduated; l., lives, lived; m., married, moved; s., son; univ., university.

The compiler hopes that, in producing this volume, he is bringing to the Gordon Family of the World information which will be of interest and value to them, and that he is rendering an important service to the public.

Many old American families have formed associations, and some of them hold annual reunions. Local reunions have been held by various branches of the Gordon family from time to time. There is some interest in the forming of a National Gordon Family Association and the holding of a National Reunion.

Information regarding the Gordon Coat of Arms will be found in Chapter (M). Attention is also invited to Chapter (O).

Sir John Gordoun lived in France about A. D. 790. He was created Duke of Gordoun by Emperor Charlemagne.

Gordon is "De Gourdon," from a small town on the Limestone Causses in Quercy. The Gourdots must have come to England at the time of the English occupation of Guienne. They did wisely to abandon the sterile plateau for the lush plain of England. The first heard of is Adam de Gourdon, "the King's servant" under Richard I.

The Scottish Gordons, however, assert that they derive from another Anglo-Norman family seated at Gordon in Berwickshire. The Gordons have their tartan and their badge, rock-ivy.

The following titled Gordon families are listed in BURKE'S GENERAL ARMORY: Earl of Aboyne, 1660; Cluny, co. Aberdeen, bart 1627; Gordonstown, co. Elgin, bart 1625; Gight, co. Aberdeen; Gight; Newton, co. Aberdeen; Letterfourie, co. Banff; Glastirim, co. Banff; Abergeldie, co. Aberdeen; Beldornie and Wardhouse, co. The Gordons of Huntley, Etc.

A101 SIR ADAM DE GORDON (Gordoun) "The first of the name in Scotland." Died fighting valiantly at the siege of Alnwick, A. D. 1093, where his master, King Malcolm, was also killed. Malcolm gave him a grant of several manors and lordships in the south of Scotland for the latter's services against Macbeth. Living in A. D. 1050.

A102 SIR ADAM II. Died fighting valiantly against the English, in defense of his own lands and the border of Scotland.

A103 SIR ROBERT: "d. peaceably at home."

A104 SIR ROBERT II.

A105 SIR RICHARD. He was a very religious man, and gave large possessions to the church.

A106 SIR ALEXANDER. He was in great favor with Alexander I, King of Scotland, who was attacked by a band of traitors, convened him into his bedchamber in the night. The king slew six of them. The others fled and Sir Alexander Gordon was sent with a party of chosen men in pursuit of them. He killed some of the traitors and brought others prisoners before the king, who bestowed on him as the reward of his good services several lands in the Merse.

(1) Sir William Gordon of Huntly. He was sent by Alexander II, King of Scotland, in command of 1000 chosen soldiers, to assist St. Lewis IX, of France, in an expedition against the Saracens, A. D. 1267. Gordon lost his life in the presence of St. Lewis (who had tender regard for him), fighting valiantly against the Saracens. The King expressed a very great concern for the loss of so great a man. He was succeeded by his brother, Adam—107.

(2) Adam—107.

A107 SIR ADAM III.

A108 SIR ADAM IV. Was engaged in the barons' war with England, against King Henry III and his son, Prince Edward.

A109 SIR THOMAS. He was succeeded by his daughter.

A110 ALICIA: heiress of Huntly; built a chapel in the forest of Huntly, where Sir Adam Gordon I killed the fierce boar. She married SIR ADAM GORDON, her kinsman.

A111 SIR ADAM V. Was in great favor with King Robert I, of Scotland, who, for his great exploits, girded him upon the field with a cincture of knighthood (a prerogative in those times granted to none but those who had signallized their valor in feats of arms). The King also granted him certain lands called Strathbogie, now called Huntly. He removed from South Scotland into the North of Scotland.

A112 ALEXANDER II. "Gave proof of his courage" at Bannockburn. Commanded the Scots Army in the battle of Halidonhill. After many victories he at last fell in the battle of Dunham, where his son William was also killed, A. D. 1346.

A113 SIR ADAM VI. He was succeeded by his brother John-114.

A114 SIR JOHN GORDON. Had a charter from King David confirming the donation of the lands of Strathbogie, A. D. 1358. Marched into England with an army and returned with much booty. This was in revenge for the plundering of his lands by the English. He married a daughter of Sir William Keith, Marischal of Scotland.

A115 SIR ADAM VII. He was one of the Scots generals in the battle of Hamledonhill, 1403.

A116 ELIZABETH, heiress. Married her near kinsman, Alexander lord Gordon. He was wounded in the battle of Harlaw.

A117 ALEXANDER II, LORD GORDON: d. 1470. He aided Charles VII, of France, against the English. Was one of the hostages for the ransom of James I, of Scotland, who, for his good services, created him Earl of Huntly, 1449. Succeeded to the estates of his predecessors. He fought against the Douglasses and Crawfords, who were rebels against James II. (3) Adam, ancestor of Gordon of Embo. (SEE C152.)

A118 GEORGE II, Earl of Huntly. Member of the privy council to James III, and to King James IV, of Scotland. See D185 and F220.

(1) Alexander—119.

(2) Sir Adam: acquired the lands of Aboynne; married the heir-ess of Sutherland and Strathanaver, whose posterity still possess the estate and title of earl of Sutherland.

A119 ALEXANDER III, EARL OF HUNTLY. Was in great favor with James IV. He was made high chancellor of Scotland, heritable constable and heritable sheriff of Inverness.

(1) JOHN—120. Which see.

(2) George—135.

(3) Alexander: Archbishop of Glasgow.

(A) John: Lord of Glenluce. Lord of the bedchamber of Chas. IX, King of France.

(a) Armand Claude, Knight of Francville. Was captain of Cent-hommes d'arms in the French service.

1. Armand James: Colonel of horse in French service.

A. George Lord Gordon: b. 1691. The Duke of Gordon.

a. George IInd Count of Gordon.

b. Andrew IIIrd Count of Gordon. Was adjutant general in Bohemia.

A120 JOHN LORD GORDON: married the PRINCESS JEAN STEWART, daughter of KING JAMES IV, of Scotland, by Margaret Drummond, daughter to the Lord Drummond, out of whose family Robert III, King of Scotland (from whom are descended all the British Kings of the name of Stewart), had formerly married Annabelle Drummond. John died before his father's death.

A121 GEORGE IV, EARL OF HUNTLY. Succeeded his grandfather when age 10. "He was a youth of lovely countenance and appearance." When the King went to France, 1535, to marry lady Magdaline, the King of France's daughter, he nominated the Earl of Huntly (then about age 28) lieutenant of the kingdom in his absence. The earl so prudently managed the affairs of the nation that there were no tumults nor disorders committed all that time; and the king, finding such peace and quiet on his return, continued ever after to have a very great esteem for Huntly, and employed him in the most important affairs in all the time of his reign. He married lady Elizabeth Keith, daughter of the Earl Marischal. He had nine sons and three daughters. See E209.

A122 GEORGE V, EARL OF HUNTLY. Lord high chancellor of the kingdom, and general of her majesty's (Queen Mary) forces. During Queen Mary's captivity in England, Huntly continued a dutiful and loyal subject and defended her cause to the last extremity. "The loyalty of the Gordon family to their prince has always been constant, and no Gordon is mentioned to have bore arms in any faction or party opposite to the supreme authority, whether swayed by the kings themselves, or managed by regents."

- A123 GEORGE VI, EARL OF HUNTLY, MARQUIS OF HUNTLY. Lord Lieutenant of all the north of Scotland. He was active in the affairs of his country. Was created Marquis of Huntly.
- A124 GEORGE II, MARQUIS OF HUNTLY. Was lord lieutenant of all North Scotland. In 1624 he was Captain of Scots Gens d'Arms, which consisted entirely of "genteel young men, well appointed." They fought in France, 1624, and was called "the bravest company that had ever been seen in France." He lost his life and fortune because of his loyalty to his king and country. (1) LORD CHARLES—131.
- A125 LORD LEWIS III, MARQUIS OF HUNTLY.
- A126 GEORGE LORD GORDON V, MARQUIS OF HUNTLY. Educated in France. Entered the French army and was in siege of Strassbourg.
- A127 GEORGE: Created Duke of Gordon, by King Charles, for services performed by the illustrious Gordon family to his royal ancestors. Privy councillor of Scotland and Lord of the Treasury. Was active in the affairs of his country.
- A128 ALEXANDER IInd, DUKE OF GORDON. Visited several of the courts of Europe and figured considerably in them. He was honorably entertained by the sovereigns and contracted friendship with several of them.
- A129 COSMO GEORGE IIIrd, DUKE OF GORDON. Knight of the most honourable order of the thistle, and one of the Scots peers in the Parliament of Great Britain.
- A130 ALEXANDER IVth, DUKE OF GORDON. Succeeded his father in 1752.
(1) George—135.
- A131 LORD CHARLES GORDON, EARL OF ABOYNE (Son of 124). Created earl, Sept. 10, 1661.
- A132 CHARLES IInd, EARL OF ABOYNE. Married his cousin. Died 1705.

(C) PROMINENT BRITISH GORDONS, PAST GENERATIONS

SIR ADAM DE GORDON: (d. 1333); Lord of Gordon; statesman and warrior; s. of Adam de G— in Berwickshire. His great-grandfather, Adam de G—, was s. of an Anglo-Norman nobleman who came to Scotland in the time of David I and settled on a tract of land called Gordon, within sight of the British border. Edward I spent the year of 1303 in Scotland; returning to England, carried with him sons of nobles as hostages and G— followed him to England as deputy, to arrange for pacification of the country; G— was on favorable terms with Edward II, from whom he received marks of favor; after the battle of Bannockburn, 1314, Gordon acknowledged Robert Bruce as king, was cordially welcomed, and speedily numbered with the king's most trusted friends; sent on special mission to the Pope, 1320, at Avignon, bearing the memorable letter asserting the independence of the kingdom. Bruce rewarded him for faithful services in subduing the rebellious house of Comyn in the north-eastern counties; he was killed, 1333, at the battle of Halidon Hill.

SIR ADAM de G—: (d. 1402), warrior; s. and heir of Sir John de G—; he was a principal assistant in the raid of Roxborough, 1377; he was under the Earl of Douglas in the invasion of Northumberland, 1388, ending with the battle of Otterburn, where Douglas was killed.

LORD ADAM: (1726?-1801), general; governor of Edinburgh Castle; s. Alexander, second Duke of Gordon; became colonel, 1762, and took his regiment to Jamaica; colonel of the Cameronians, 1775; governor of Tynemouth, 1778; appointed commander of the forces in Scotland (North Britain), 1782; became full general and governor of Edinburgh Castle, 1796.

ADAM LINDSAY: (1833-1870), Australian poet; s. Captain Adam G—; b. Fayal in the Azores; joined mounted police as a trooper in South Australia, 1853; elected to colonial House of Assembly, 1865; noted as a steeplechaser in Victoria; published first volume of poems, 1867; achieved considerable reputation.

ALEXANDER: third Earl of Huntly; (d. 1524), s. George, second Earl; for his services the king, in 1505-06, confirmed to him lands and baronies, to be called Barony and Earldom of Huntly; he, with Lord Home, led the vanguard of the Scots at the battle of Flodden, 1513; the king being slain, he was appointed to aid the queen mother in the government, with other nobles; made lieutenant over all Scotland, 1517-18, with exception of Argyll's territory.

ALEXANDER: (1516?-1575), bishop-elect of Galloway; titular archbishop of Athens; s. John, master of Huntly; took part in the last provincial-general council of the Scottish Church, 1559, held in Blackfriars, Edinburgh; joined in ratifying the convention of Berwick which established the English alliance as against France; as member of the privy council, 1567, he signed the letter to the queen-regent of France, giving an account of the murder of Darnley; on appointment of Moray as regent he temporised and, as member of parliament, confirmed Mary's abdication; on Mary's escape from Lochleven he signed the bond for her restoration, 1568; acted as queen's commissioner in England, 1570-71; he was ordered to do public penance in sackcloth for acknowledging the queen's authority.

ALEXANDER: (1587-1654), of Earlston, covenanter; s. John G— of Airds and Earlston; member of parliament; appointed on a parliamentary commission, 1641, for examination of the Marquis of Montrose; stoutly repudiated claims of Charles I to ecclesiastical supremacy.

SIR ALEXANDER: (1650-1726), of Earlston, covenanter; s. William G— (1614-1679) of Earlston; present at battle of Bothwell Bridge; he escaped to Holland, but was seized by customs officers and sent for trial to Edinburgh; king ordered him put to the torture of the boots to extort from him names of his accomplices; after this he appeared insane; council thought the execution of a man in state of insanity would endanger his soul; he was reprieved and execution deferred; he was sent to the Castle of Blackness, where his imprisonment was voluntarily shared by his wife and some of their children were born there; the Earlston estates were restored after the revolution and he returned there.

ALEXANDER: second Duke of Gordon (1678?-1728): s. George, first Duke of Gordon; during the rebellion he was taken by the Earl of Sutherland and imprisoned in the castle at Edinburgh, but was pardoned subsequently; the grand duke sent his bust in white marble and a silver font for the christening of his godson, the young marquis of Huntly, Gordon's son, together with a fine suit of steel armor gilt; he lived chiefly at home in princely style.

ALEXANDER: (1692?-1754?), antiquary; explored ancient Roman remains in Scotland; appointed secretary to Society for Encouragement of Learning, 1736; secretary to Society of Antiquaries, 1736; obtained secretaryship of the Egyptian Society; emigrated to South Carolina, 1741, as secretary to the governor of that province.

SIR ALEXANDER: (1783-1815), lieutenant-colonel; s. George G.; br. of George Hamilton G—, fourth Earl of Aberdeen; served as aide-de-camp to his maternal uncle, General Sir David Baird, at the recapture of the Cape of Good Hope, 1806; appointed aide-de-camp to Lord Wellington, 1810; mentioned in dispatches, received ten medals for general actions and was made K. C. B.; made aide-de-camp to the Duke of Wellington in Belgium and received a mortal wound while rallying a battalion of Brunswickers, near La Haye Sainte, 1815, and died.

ALEXANDER: fourth Duke of Gordon (1745?-1827); s. Cosmo George G—, third Duke (who was made K. T. for his loyalty in 1745); elected representative peer of Scotland, 1761; caused Gordon Castle to be rebuilt; was made K. T., lord keeper of the great seal of Scotland.

ANDREW: (1712-1751) natural philosopher; b. Cofforach, Angusshire; took habit of order of St. Benedict in the Scotch monastery at Ratisbon and was ordained priest; 1737 was appointed professor of philosophy, Univ. of Erfurt; in recognition of his scientific acquirements he was elected a correspondent of the Academy of Sciences of Paris.

ARCHIBALD: M. D. (1812-1886), inspector-general of hospitals; served with the army in the Sutlej campaign of 1846, in the Pubjaub campaign of 1848-49, in the Crimea, throughout the siege of Sebastopol; made C. B. and a knight of the Legion of Honour; honorary surgeon to the queen.

CHARLES: second Earl of Aboyne (d. 1702); succeeded his fa., Charles G—, in 1681; member of Scottish parliament.

SIR CHARLES: (1756-1835), governor of St. Lucia; s. Charles G— of Abergeldie, Perthshire; fought in the American war, 1776; from letters, now in the British Museum, addressed by him to the Marquis of Carmarthen, he appears to have accompanied the Duke of Brunswick with the Prussian army, 1787, in an invasion into Holland; in recognition of his services he was knighted in the Prussian Order of Military Merit, 1790; received rank of brigadier-general.

CHARLES GEORGE: known as Chinese Gordon (1833-1885), major-general, C. B.; royal engineers; s. Lieut.-Gen. Henry William G—; b. Woolwich; joined forces of Sir James Hope Grant operating with the French against China, 1860; he took part in clearing the rebel Taipings out of Kah-ding; at the request of the governor-general of the Kiang provinces, Gordon was authorized to accept the command of the Chinese forces called the "Ever Victorious Army," 1863, and he succeeded in stamping out the rebellious Taipings; returning to England he was given charge of construction of forts for defense of the Thames, 1865; appointed governor of the equatorial provinces of Central Africa, 1873; received combined appointment, 1877, of governor-general of the Soudan, Darfour, the equatorial provinces and the Red Sea littoral; resigned and returned to England, 1880; sent to China to advise the government in connection with their then strained relations with Russia; his wise counsels in favor of peace carried the day; returned to England, October, 1880; assumed command of troops, as senior officer, at Mauritius, 1882; accepted position as commandant of colonial forces at Cape Town, May, 1882, but resigned, October, 1882, and returned to England; visited the Holy Land, 1883; ordered to the Soudan, 1883, to accomplish abandonment of the Soudan by the khedive; a relief expedition in command of Sir Herbert Stewart was sent to his assistance but the Mahdi rebels massacred Gordon and his troops; Friday, 13 March, was observed by the grief-stricken English, as a day of national mourning; parliament voted a national monument to be placed in Trafalgar Square; memorials were projected in Westminster Abbey and Rochester Cathedral; the following epitaph was written by Lord Tennyson:

"Warrior of God, man's friend, not here below,
But somewhere dead far in the waste Soudan,
Thou livest in all hearts, for all men know
This earth hath borne no simpler, nobler man."

(F) AMERICAN GORDON FAMILIES

In the list of references, several volumes will be found covering the GORDON Families of America. Practically all of these works are copyrighted and for that reason the material found therein was not included in this volume.

All of the volumes mentioned will be found in the Library of Congress, most of them will be found in the Libraries of all Genealogical and Historical Societies, and some of them may be found in the Public Libraries of the large cities.

It is suggested in the introduction that the writer and his associates will be glad to co-operate with any members of the GORDON family who may be interested in gathering the necessary material for and publishing a Genealogy of the GORDON Families in the United States.

(I) GORDON TOWNS, ETC.

There are in the United States, towns as follows: GORDON—Ala., Colo., Ga., Kans., Ky., Nebr., Ohio, Pa., Tex., W. Va., Wis. GORDONSBURG: Tenn. GORDONSVILLE: Ala., Ky., Minn., Tenn., Va., Mo., Pa., Tex. There is a Gordonstown in Scotland.

There are also in the United States numerous counties, townships, streets, avenues, etc., bearing the name "Gordon." This is eloquent testimony to the high esteem in which the name is held in this country.

(J) GORDON CENSUS OF THE UNITED STATES

The compiler of GORDON FAMILY RECORDS has made up a list of Gordon families from city and telephone directories of the United States, and from other sources, as follows:

ALA.	60	ME.	107	OKLA.	95
ARIZ.	10	MD.	47	ORE.	83
ARK.	25	MASS.	441	PA.	376
CALIF.	556	MICH.	248	R. I.	73
COLO.	84	MINN.	100	S. C.	10
CONN.	153	MISS.	15	S. D.	20
D. C.	82	MO.	209	TENN.	71
DEL.	10	MONT.	25	TEX.	216
FLA.	145	NEBR.	54	UTAH	44
GA.	114	NEV.	6	VT.	31
IDAHO	21	N. H.	63	VA.	152
ILL.	148	N. J.	265	WASH.	141
IND.	254	N. M.	1	W. VA.	71
IA.	86	N. Y.	406	WISC.	82
KANS.	68	N. C.	64	WYO.	8
KY.	123	N. D.	14
LA.	64	OHIO	402	Total	5967

There are numerous Hebrews bearing the name Gordon. In the above list we do not include any Gordons in New York City, Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Chicago, St. Louis or Boston. The Gentile Gordons in these cities undoubtedly outnumber the Jewish Gordons in the rest of the United States.

To secure an estimate of the "Gordon population" of the United States, we figure as follows:

	(a) Multiply by
Only about half the names were taken from each directory consulted	2
Half of the Gordons reside in the rural districts or in small towns having no printed directories which were available to us.....	2

There are an average of more than four persons in each American family.....	4
Since Gordon daughters marry and have as many descendants as the Gordon sons, there are as many Gordon descendants of "other names" as there are bearing the name Gordon, though it is much easier to locate the latter.....	2
By multiplying each figure of column (a) into the preceding figure, we have a total of.....	32
Conservative estimate of the Gordon population of the United States, one-half of whom bear the name Gordon and one-half of whom bear other names.....	190,944

The estimated Gordon population of any of the states may be obtained by multiplying the figures shown by 32. There are Gordons in every state of the Union. The Gordon population of the British Empire is probably equal to that in the United States.

(K) RELIGIONS OF THE GORDONS

For several centuries nearly all the Gordons lived in Scotland, England and Ireland. Most of the Scotch and, likewise, the Gordons were of the Presbyterian faith.

There are a number of Gordons of the Catholic faith in the British Isles, probably eight per cent. of the entire Gordon population.

The Gordons who came from the British Isles to America continued in the faith of their fathers, though their descendants today will be found in the memberships of practically all the various churches. Of the Gordons in America who are church members, about ninety per cent. are of the Protestant faith.

Biographical sketches of Gordons appear in WHO'S WHO IN AMERICA. Their religious faiths are shown as follows: Episcopal, 1; Catholic, 1; Presbyterian, 3; Congregationalist, 2; Methodist, 2; religion not stated, 17. Total: 26.

(M) THE GORDON COAT OF ARMS

A Coat of Arms is an emblem which is displayed by titled persons, persons of royal blood, and their descendants.

Coats of Arms were originally used for purposes of identification and recognition on the field of battle as well as in civil life.

It is claimed by some writers that Coats of Arms, in a crude form, were used by Noah's sons after the flood. There are records of other Coats of Arms, in one crude form or another, at different periods of ancient history. Heraldry, however, as we know it today, did not become of much importance until soon after the invasion of England by William the Conqueror, A. D. 1066. Heraldry became of general interest at about the time of the Crusades.

The Coat of Arms shown on the cover of this volume is the oldest Gordon Coat of Arms in existence. It is the Coat of Arms of the Gordons of Huntly, Aboyne, etc., who descend from the same ancestry as the other British Gentile Gordons.

Other Coats of Arms created since bear a great resemblance to this one, the colors being the same, though the motto and crest differ in some cases.

This Coat of Arms is described in various works on heraldry (See References), in heraldic parlance, as follows:

ARMS: Az, three boars' heads, erased, or.

CREST: In a ducal coronet or a stag's head and neck affrontee ppr. Attired with ten tynes of the first.

MOTTO: Animo non Astutia (By courage, not by stratagem).

"Sir Adam Gordon I was remarkable for killing a fierce boar that much wasted the country near the forest or wood of Huntly; and that the memory of such a remarkable action might be transmitted to posterity, King Malcolm would have him to carry in his banner three boars-heads, or, in a field of azure."

"This knight was in great favor with Malcolm, both for his prudence and valor, and Malcolm bestowed upon him, as a reward of his merit, the lands of Stichel, and other lands in Merse and Galloway, which continued in the family of Gordon for upwards of 500 years."

Sir Bernard Burke, of Heralds College, London, said "Heraldry is prized by all who can show honorable ancestry or wish to found honorable families."

Many Americans are today displaying Coats of Arms which have been adopted by their progenitors in Europe.

Besides its Family significance the GORDON Coat of Arms makes an excellent mural decoration and inspires the admiration and comment of all who see it.

Being a member of the GORDON family, it is quite appropriate that you should display this Coat of Arms, in proper colors, on the wall of your home or office, and use it on your stationery. This would be visible testimony to your friends and to the world of your justifiable pride in your family history, traditions and standards.
